TEACHERS SEE THINGS

About 500 of Them Swoop Down on Park City—Other Notes.

Park City, Oct. 24.—Today the Salt Lake teachers visited Park City and were entertained at the different mines. The party numbered about 500 and was divided into the state and local divisions. One of the principals, The train bearing the teachers was in two sections, which arrived in town about 10:30 and 10:40. At the depot a reception committee of the Park City teachers met the visitors and escorted them to the Central school building, where punch and water were served. Then, the transfers were loaded and the teachers started for the mines.

The paper advertised about $50, but it developed that there were nearly 500, and the transfers were inadequate to supply the demand for transportation, so several of the city's very teams were placed in the commission.

One event not on the programme was a speech by Senator Kearns. The senator came up with the first section and went to the Central school with the teachers. In his speech Mr. Kearns extended a general welcome to the visiting pedagogues, and said that the mines and assured the teachers that dinner was to be had at the different boarding houses.

While Mr. Kearns did not go into politics in his speech, yet there are those here who think the underlying principle of the excursion is a plot to secure the votes of the many teachers for the Knox ticket.

This morning at about 3 o'clock Grover Evans, son of Representative Evans, met with a first section accident. The young man, in company with George Siddoway, had been in Rockport at a dance. They were on their way home and a physician told they were driving stepped off a bridge and fell, pulling the reins out of Siddoway's hands. The horses, finding themselves free, started and ran. The boys out of the buggy, injuring both severely, but young Evans was so badly hurt that he was rendered unconscious. Siddoway, who was driving, was thrown from a badly sprained knee, managed to walk to town, a distance of five miles, and notified Ed Evans, who at once secured a team and a physician and started for the scene of the accident. The injured boy was brought home, still in an unconscious state. At this writing he is in a critical condition.

Harry Freeman is spending a day or two in Park City. John Noonan is in Park City, visiting with friends. Senator Thomas Kearns and wife were Park City visitors today. W. W. Armstrong returned to the Park this morning.

DAMAGES RECOVERED

Price, Oct. 23.—In the damage suit of Paul Woods vs. the Rio Grande railroad company for $30,000 damages for the loss of his leg, the jury in the district court here this morning brought in a verdict of $12,000. The case was argued pretty much the entire day yesterday. George Sutherland and S. W. Thurman representing the railroad company and O. W. Powers for the plaintiff.

Before the case went to the jury the attorneys for the company made a proposition of a compromise with the plaintiff, offering him $10,000 for a settlement. The same being declined, Judge Powers closed at 10 o'clock last night, when the jury retired and began their deliberations. When they reached a verdict before morning they should send the same and appear in court at 9 o'clock this morning.

The jury, being polled when it came into the box, given declared the verdict to be their while one man said he disagreed and the seventh a long and company entered numerous exceptions and motion for a new trial. The plaintiff was in the employ of the defendant company as a brakeman at Bockfield when he lost his leg.

Kelly, who broke jail last Sunday and was afterwards captured, was brought before Judge Powers for a hearing on his petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The judge granted the writ and the prisoner was released.

Judge Johnson will finish up the calendar here tomorrow, after a two weeks' absence. He has given six prisoners from one to thirteen years in the penitentiary and the seventh a long and company entered numerous exceptions and motion for a new trial. The plaintiff was in the employ of the defendant company as a brakeman at Bockfield when he lost his leg.

COURT IN SEVIER.

Widow Receives Damages For Blighted Affections.

Junction, Utah, Oct. 22.—Judge Childers, after a ten days' siege of the hardest kind of work at Richfield, holding court there night and day in order to get Sevier county's court calendar cleared before the opening of the Platte county term, reached here yesterday, one day late. A jury was on hand and the latest calendar was presented in this county on an opening day of a term of court was before the judge. However, in calling the calendar, numerous stipulations for continuances and compromises were found filed, and in a very few moments orders in accordance with the stipulations of the calendar were made. The calendar was reduced to almost nothing.

In the criminal case of the state vs. George R. Johnson, accused of carnal knowledge of a female under the age of consent, it was found that the defendant within the past few days had married the girl and the case was continued, but not dismissed.

In the befooling waters case against E. P. Cordova, a Mexican sheep herder for Magley Brothers, shepherds of the state, it was found that the complaint filed in the justice court was imperfect, hence the case was dismissed. Defendant was rearrested, and the case was continued. Another appeal of the case to the district court has been taken.

The somewhat notorious breach of promise case was taken up for trial yesterday afternoon. The entire jury panel was exhausted in the examination of the case, and the members remained who had not heard sufficient of the facts in the case to have formed an opinion as to the merits and the case went to trial before those six men. The plaintiff is Mrs. Alta Benson, a widow with five children, in very poor circumstances, living at Parowan. She came to Junction in the summer of 1901 and met D. W. Stoker, then a recent widower with four children, standing well socially in the community, and reputed to be rich. She says that he proposed marriage and she accepted him, expressing a preference at the time, however, to be married in a Mormon temple, first being sealed to her dead husband, but that inasmuch as Stokes said he could not procure the bishop's recommendation necessary to permit him to enter the temple, she agreed to marry him outside of the temple and trust to being able at some future date to enter the temple and be sealed to her first and dead husband. The defendant returned to her home with him and the fact of their engagement became public, and she began preparations for the wedding. Letters passed between them till September, and she heard nothing further from him until December, when she learned that he had married another woman. That she was thereby humiliated and chagrined to her injury in the sum of $2,000. That in her conditions and prospects of life she was injured in the sum of $2,000 in addition to her actual outlay in preparing for marriage.

The defendant admitted the proposal, but said that at the time it was not accepted except on the condition that he would get a recommendation and go through a temple, which he said, he told her at the time he could not and would not do. He admitted, further, wooing and love-like conduct toward the plaintiff, but alleged that it was always in the hope that she would change her mind and relax on her temple proposition; that this she never did do, and, therefore, no actual and complete marriage contract ever took place between them, and he, for that reason, considering himself absolutely free, married another woman. The woman he married was young and without children.

The testimony covered the conduct of Mrs. Benson and Mr. Stoker from the time they met until he quit corresponding and was at times somewhat racy and at other times very pathetic. The jury was crowded during all of the time of the trial, and especially during the arguments, which closed this afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the jury retired. In less than an hour it returned with a verdict in favor of the woman for $44.
